WHY YOU SHOULD LIVE ON CAMPUS

There's something about St. Augustine, a city named by Coastal Living as one of America's "Happiest Seaside Towns."

If you're living on campus you can't get any closer to student life. Flagler's five residence halls offer you an opportunity to be a short walk from popular downtown eateries, social spots and classes.

The Office of Residence Life is committed to ensuring that your education expands beyond what you learn in the classroom. Through programming, learn-based practices, and supportive staff and neighbors, residents will be able to build a home that is a part of their larger holistic education at Flagler College.

The residence halls are designed so that residents can grow as both an individual and as a community. Residents will live within one of our five residence halls and will live and create a community with students from varying identities, backgrounds, personalities, educational interests, religions/faiths, and geographic locations.

Cedar and Lewis

Lewis

Cedar and Lewis hall are nearly identical in the fact that they are both jack-and-jill style housing. Nesslered in the center of campus, these community-style halls allow for easy friendships to be build and a natural support system at their new home.

Each hall offers common areas to study and build community in, convenient locations to the center of campus, and exciting programs put on by RAs.

Cedar

Lewis Hall will be the home to our Honors Learning Community.

Abare and FEC

Abare and FEC are our traditional upperclass halls that are designed for upperclass learning and living. Each hall has lounges and lobbies designed for community-building and studying. They are also located right on the San Sebastian River, perfect for catching the beautiful sky during sunrise.

Abare

Suite Style Living

Abare is designed with suite style living to mimic a true off-campus apartment. Designed with a double room and a single room, Abare offers the opportunity for three friends to live together.

You must be a sophomore standing to live in Abare.

FEC

Historic Towers & Views

FEC offers the opportunity to live within the Historic Florida East Coast (FEC) towers and see the views of the city. With wide windows and a comfortable living space, FEC offers a space for two friends to live together with a private bathroom.

Ponce

A railroad tycoon's dream turns into a unique living experience.

When Henry Flagler designed the historic Ponce de Leon Hotel, he wanted every guest to have a unique experience. Because of that, every room is designed differently with its layout. Residents of Ponce have the unique opportunity to live in the historic hotel, which has been newly upgraded, and walk the same shoes as its many famous guests. Ponce Hall offers study spaces throughout and a natural, built-in community that will help all residents thrive.

Meet Our Team

Krissy Lombardo

DIRECTOR OF RESIDENTIAL AND INTEGRATED STUDENT EXPERIENCE

The Director of Residential and Integrated Student Experience oversees the Residence Life Program serving under the Deans within the Division of Student Affairs. The Director is responsible for supervising two professional staff members and a team of student staff, the Resident Advisors and office work study students. The Director is also responsible for educational programming for students within the residence halls.

Donn Garby

ASSISTANT DIRECTOR OF HOUSING OPERATIONS

The Assistant Director of Housing Operations works to oversee the operations of all residence halls including, but not limited to; room assignments, coordinating work with the Facilities Department, weekly walkthroughs, and key operations. The AD of HO also works closely with the Offices of Enrollment, Marketing and Communications, and Facilities to ensure that the residence halls are taken care of and issues are addressed in a timely manner.

COMMUNITY COORDINATOR

The Community Coordinator assists with the supervision of the RAs and supervises work study students, as well as coordinates campus programming initiatives within the residence halls. Among their duties, they assist with operations tasks, crisis management procedures, and serve as a contact during roommate conflict situations.
